Personality Types

Pooch People

Like your family, dogs are friendly and gregarious. Dogs are pack animals and you'll love how they become a natural part of the family dynamic. Forever affectionate and loyal by nature, moms will appreciate a dog's mindful eyes the next time your children get into a little too much mischief! Dogs require a lot of care so it is important to have kids share in the responsibilities. Afternoon walks and help with feeding bring families together and teach valuable lessons on how to respect living things.

Your family is purrilicious

Just like your family, cats can be cooperative one minute yet fussy the next. Cats are perfect for families who enjoy a sense of freedom but are also creatures of comfort. Like teenagers, cats are known for straying off on their own, but they always know when it's time to come home. Easy to care for and mainly solitary creatures, cats like their space and don't require constant attention, in fact most hate it! Leave them alone and they'll reward you with endless amounts of purring and affection.

Exotic Tastes

Your family loves being different. Cats and dogs are way too common for your brood. Your family's unique tastes are best suited to exotic animals such as fish, turtles, or lizards. These animals are low-key and easy to maintain. Provide them with clean environments, love, and a steady stream of food is all that is required. Unlike dogs which need constant attention, owning an exotic pet means you don't need to worry the next time your family jets off on your next far-flung vacation.
